'Hit-lover' in court

■ ILSE KRIGE

THE mistress accused of arranging a hit on her lover's wife, again briefly appeared in the Goodwood Magistrate's court yesterday.

Shaheeda Snyders, 35, of Monte Vista, is out on bail.

She looked demure in a black poncho, a neat pair of pants and stiletto heels with a white headscarf.

Snyders was arrested in a police trap in Goodwood on August 20, while she was allegedly trying to recruit a hitman to murder her lover's wife.

She allegedly paid the "hitman" an unspecified amount of money, which was apparently intended as a deposit.

However, the "hitman" was in fact an undercover cop.

Snyders is now facing charges of conspiracy to commit a crime.

Magistrate Ruben Smith postponed the matter until November 29, to allow the Director of Public Prosecutions time to decide on a court date.
